MySivi

MySivi scales 917 active ads by pairing cinematic AI-generated skits with a low-friction ₹1 trial offer.

THE ONE THING TO KNOW

10 ads, 10 different creatives, 3 captions. Score these ads on copy and most of them tie. So the workflow watched every video and judged the creative, not the caption.

How to read this report

`OBSERVED` seen, heard or scraped directly.
`INFERRED` Gemini's judgement, always phrased as "likely".
`ESTIMATED` a score computed in n8n from the two above.

The ranking is estimated creative effectiveness from observable characteristics. It is not campaign performance — the Ad Library does not expose CTR, CPI or ROAS.

02 — METHODOLOGY

How the winner is picked

Gemini describes and grades. n8n does the maths. The same inputs always give the same ranking.

01 Ad Library URL → 02 Apify scrape → 03 Normalize · dedupe · fingerprint → 04 Gemini watches each video → 05 Validate / repair JSON → 06 Score in code → 07 Rank + quadrant → 08 Strategist memo → 09 PDF

Hook	20%
Clarity	15%
Value prop	15%
Offer	15%
CTA	10%
Specificity	10%
Creative angle	10%

Each dimension is a 0–10 grade from Gemini against a written rubric with anchors. Weighted sum × 10. Missing grades are imputed at 5 and flagged.

Market Signal · 0–100 OBSERVED

Impression rank in sample	50%
Longevity (full at 30 days)	30%
Distribution (placements + clones)	20%

Advertisers kill ads that lose money. An ad Meta ranks high on impressions, that has survived for weeks, or that has been re-uploaded as a clone is a revealed preference — the closest public proxy to "this one works".

Proven winner — above median on both. Hidden gem — strong creative the market hasn't backed yet: give it budget. Study this — the market likes it more than the rubric does: find what the rubric misses. Retire — below median on both.

Sampling & cleaning

15 rows scraped, 0 exact duplicates removed (same ad id or identical video assets), top 10 kept in Meta's order. Video asset ids and durations were decoded from the CDN urls to separate ads that share a caption. 10 × watched video.

Reading the grid

Numbers are ranks. Dashed lines are the sample medians (creative 79.0, market 64.8).

Hidden gems: #4, #5 — strong on paper, not yet backed by Meta's delivery. Cheapest wins to test.

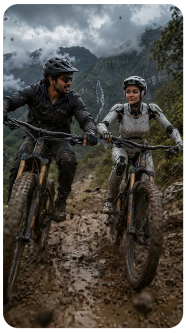

Study this: #8, #9 — the market rewards something the rubric under-scores. Worth a frame-by-frame look.

Creative clones: 946551737840774 = 936537375615758; 2525947104551219 = 2805580133171301 — same video uploaded under multiple ad ids, a sign the advertiser is scaling it.

ANGLE · LIKELY TARGET

PAIN → OUTCOME

Inability to speak English when needed, and hesitation or lack of practice partners for spoken English. → Fluent spoken English without awkwardness or expensive traditional coaching classes.

WHY IT WORKS

ANGLE · LIKELY TARGET

AI character correcting everyday English mistakes in surreal scenarios — Hindi speakers in India looking to improve their spoken English for career or daily communication

PAIN → OUTCOME

09 — COMPETITIVE GAPS

What nobody in this sample is doing

Each gap starts from a count in the evidence grid, not from opinion.

01 Missing Transformation Proof

`0 out of 10 ads use a before-and-after visual format`

Why it matters. Users cannot visualize the specific skill improvement they are buying

Opportunity. Test a split-screen showing broken English vs. fluent English using the same prompt

02 Lack of Peer Validation

`Only 1 out of 10 ads features a real learner story`

Why it matters. AI characters can feel uncanny and reduce trust in educational outcomes

Opportunity. Source 15-second selfie testimonials from actual users

03 Slow Product Identification

`Median product reveal is 16s; ad 1083327227503975 waits until 55s`

Why it matters. Feed users drop off before seeing the app interface

Opportunity. Insert a 2-second UI pop-up within the first 5 seconds of every skit

04 Untapped Regional Markets

`Sample lacks Telugu, Bengali, and Marathi creatives`

Why it matters. These represent high-volume segments for English learning apps in India

Opportunity. Localize existing winning AI scripts into Telugu and Bengali

11 — FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

What I would do on Monday

ACTION	WHY	EFFORT	IMPACT
Front-load product UI	The 16s median reveal is too slow for feed placements where users scroll quickly	Low	High
Test before-and-after creative	Current ads focus on the process but ignore the visual proof of the result	Med	High
Expand to Telugu and Bengali	The current sample is limited to three languages despite a massive 917 ad portfolio	Med	High
Introduce a real user testimonial track	Only 1/10 ads uses a real story; human faces increase trust over AI characters	High	Med

12 — DISCLAIMER & LIMITATIONS

The ranking represents estimated creative effectiveness based on observable ad characteristics. It is not based on private campaign performance data. The Meta Ad Library does not expose CTR, CPI, CPA, ROAS or spend for commercial ads in India.

- Sample: top 10 active ads by Meta's impression sort out of 917 reported. Patterns describe this sample, not the whole account.
- Creative grades come from Gemini against a fixed rubric; they are judgements and can vary slightly between runs. Weights, ranks, medians and gaps are deterministic.
- Market Signal uses public behaviour (sort order, run length, placements, clones) as a proxy for advertiser confidence. It can be wrong for new ads or ads paused for reasons unrelated to results.
- Dynamic Creative ads hold several variants; the first video variant was analysed. Creative URLs from Meta expire after a few days, so thumbnails in older copies of this report may not load.
